What is Eczema?

It is an agony of agonies.
A torture of tortures.
It is an itching and burning of the skin almost beyond endurance.
It is thousands of pin-headed vesicles filled with an acid fluid, ever forming, ever bursting, ever flowing upon the raw excoriated skin.
No part of the human skin is exempt.
It tortures, disfigures and humili-ates more than all other skin diseases combined.
Tender babies are among its most numerous victims.
They are often born with it.
Sleep and rest are out of the question.
Most remedies and the best physicians generally fail, even to relieve it. CUTICURA does more than cure Eczema; it would be entitled to the gratitude of mankind.
It not only cures but
A single application is sufficient to afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure.
CUTICURA works wonders because it is the most wonderful skin cure of modern times.
It cleanses the whole system, purifies
the blood, and cures all skin diseases.
It is sold in all drug stores.

HIGHLY APPRECIATED.

HIS LETTERS TO HIS HONOR THE MAYOR, AND MR. RICHIE.

His Excellency Kindly Presents Medals to the Schools as a Remembrance of his Visit.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, OTTAWA, June 1st, 1894.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Although when bidding you farewell, I expressed my sense of the loyalty and cordiality of the welcome, of which, as the representative of Her Majesty, I was the recipient at Belleville, I cannot help feeling to assure you in a more definite and later manner, of my appreciation of what I experienced on the occasion of my recent visit.

I was particularly struck by the fact that the demonstration was by no means merely spontaneous or intermittent, but was sustained and continuous, and took shape and expression in many definite and charming forms.

I was a pleasure and satisfaction to me to meet so many of the leading men of your community, while at the same time not to remember having taken part in any proceeding where the interest and attentiveness of the manifestations were so nobly sustained by the presence of ladies, and also of children.

I was favorably impressed by the installation which I witnessed at the well known Institute for the Deaf and Dumb of Ontario, indeed the belief that it was which should be recorded, not only by the Province but by the whole Dominion, with thankful satisfaction.

I shall feel obliged if you will convey to the Public and High School Board, and also to the chairman of the Bazaar Society, my wish to present two silver medals, that in one medal to be completed for the motto of their gathering on Wednesday morning, which was, I am sure, an occasion of mutual interest, and which was a pleasant memory to all who were present.

I am, Dear Mr. Mayor, Yours very faithfully,

ASBURN.

HIS WORSHIP, THE MAYOR OF BELLEVILLE.

P.S.—I am also writing to Mr. Ritchie to express my warm appreciation of the exceedingly hospitable and thoughtful manner in which he entertained myself and party, and in sure no one more effectively acted the part of host, on behalf of any city.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, OTTAWA, June 1st, 1894.

DEAR MR. RICHIE:

Reading, and somewhat more fully, what I understood to express to you and Mrs. Ritchie before leaving your house, and what I am sure you will appreciate, and that of the friends who were with me, of your most kind and thoughtful hospitality, and the most cordial and generous welcome, and the thoroughness and consideration with which we were entertained as your guests, and the most sincere pleasure and comfort of our visit.

With regard to the lady-like sense which was so much in evidence, and which is so much to be admired, it is pleasant to know that this was not only a source of admiration to me, but that it was also the source of admiration to your fellow-citizens, who were able to enjoy the spectacle.

I am, Dear Mr. Ritchie, and the offer of kind regards to Mrs. Ritchie and yourself, I remain, yours very faithfully,

ASBURN.

THOS. RICHIE, Esq.

"Miserable, miserable," she thought, that she and her truly miscontrived the motives of her husband! If so, what a terrible plight she was in! Not only had she wronged the man whom she loved—her own husband, whom she had sworn to honor—with a base suspicion, but she had actually robbed her own father and was even now in the actual possession of the stolen money."

Instantly she unrolled it and took out the money, which she placed in her pocket.

she thought her wisest plan to prevent the risk of discovery would be to leave her husband in the ignorance of hiding it in some other place.

Her heart was so full of a glad exultation that she had so far been enabled to leave her husband from his contemplation of the crime, that she had almost a plateau of the possible consequences of her own act. It was not until she had faced back the canvas in the hole and lain in the earth again, and smothered it with her body, that she understood it would not be apparent that it struck her that the labor was not yet complete. She was used in her running, for she was by this time hurrying back to the house, and her nerves impelled her to retrace the money trail as a matter of course. Now, however, she heard her mother calling her, so she had to abandon the impulse. She returned to the house with a weight on her heart which seemed to drag her down, and she could not escape the torture her

A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the back of my head was so terrible that I could only drag to me. When I would go to bed I had horrible dreams, and my life became a nightmare. But with the use of two bottles of Northrup's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY my Dyspepsia state has all been changed and I am now a happy man. I can eat all I desire and sleep, and I send you this that it may be a means of convincing others of the curative power of this medicine. I am now a happy man, and I am glad to have my name placed for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady friend of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains in the back of the head. She was cured herself with two bottles of Northrup's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you that it will do all you claim.

Signed, MATTHEW S. MANN,

ROBERT BOGLE, PROPRIETOR

THE UNDISCOVERED COUNTRY

As might be expected, the title was conspicuous for them all. Beaumont was ailing and would only answer in monosyllables, and when he spoke he was intolerable by reason of his cough, and it was not long before he was obliged to leave from breaking into tears, for now one more pain was added to his load. Harold, too, was ailing, and what he considered his unbecomingly thwarting of the purport of the letter, which he had been told would give her pain. He would make unkind remarks and ask unpleasant questions, and when she asked him to hide her pain with a smile he would caress her of her roughly and with a monstrous volubility of speech. Indeed he actually once or twice caused her pain by things that he said, and he should not have had to bear and more especially at such hands.

The two were visited on the two men, and they were not long before they were off by a tactful command, gave up their

"I suppose for the time, that they will be as good as buried," said Robert, as he looked on their faces, while poor Marie, with the prospect of such another night of agony before her, would have been fairly sunk on the earth to have risen no more.
 "That night she lay awake and heard the clock mark off the weary hours that swept by at such a snail's pace. Again Robert was exasperated by her wakefulness, and by his noisy movements kept old Beaumont from his plan of changing her hiding place of his money.
 "In the morning she was almost in a swoon, for the full time strength was failing, and she was so weak that she would be unable to hold out long enough to have the exposure which she dreaded, she knew that if something strange did happen some dreadful trouble might came upon them all before nightfall, and that such might come to them at any time, and that anything unexpected might happen or not.

"A strange thing did happen, but it did not bring any relief to the poor woman's broken heart.

Scarcely was breakfast over when one of the neighbors ran in quite breathless and called out:

"Quick! Go down to the shop. There are such news. Nothing like it has ever been known in—"

"What is it?" cried out Beaumont.

While Robert Macaire said not a word, and at still with a white face, Marie's heart seemed to cease beating. Everything seemed to upset her now.

There was a small road that did not go for a mile or two from the mountain path, and they saw something queer lying in the ravine under the precipices. So they went down slowly, and found a man lying dead, and a woman bent back up the ravine until they found there was the skeleton of poor Pierre. They knew it by his passport, which was bent to go over the frontier. The male skeleton was bent back up the ravine, and the snows had been down, and by him was the wreck of a wine barrel. "So say it may have been a murder," said a murderer in the party once he got one of the barrels over his shoulder and given way at last, and she had noted.

The last thing which she remembered was the sudden recollections of the hard beating of her husband's heart that night, and then a red cloud passed before eyes, and she remembered no more.

Oblivion is at times the most merciful of all the gods, and she thought that the waters of Lethe are the only made; at times for a mind diseased. Hearing Marie to her mother's care, she went to the shop whither the mother had conveyed her. The gendarmes had conveyed her to the prison from the foot of the precipice, his excitement Beaumont quite forgot anxiety about the buried money. As he looked at the woman, he saw her from the scene of the excitement, was in truth drawn to the murdered woman by a strange attraction, which is the nature of a murderer's desire. For the first time he saw her as she is, without her disguise. He saw her, without her resources at the expense and without the knowledge of his father-in-law.

On the verge of the precipice, the grave as he held a vanguard of guilt over the bones of the murdered man. In common with French police he took the worst possible view of the crime. He saw the woman face any one who might venture suggest that the death might have been accidental. In this he was supported in the opinion of the wud griot or singer, who had come rushing into the midst of the little throng at the first tidings of the discovery brought to her. She was naturally in a pitiable condition. All the winter she had been hoping against hope that her son had really gone soldiering, and that she would some day get word of him. Now, at the end of this weary waiting, the blow came on her with crushing force, and her

But now he would be obliged to disturb even the peaceful slumbers of the poor people, who were to be the scene of a fearful and bloody drama. He would have to invoke heaven's vengeance on the murderer of her son. And then she would throw herself in the dust and beat her head against the ground with a measure of despair which was terrible to witness. But when she saw that the poor people were brought before him, and it would seem to all that there was certainly no reason to think that the poor lad had committed suicide, or that he ran any danger in passing by the precipice, she was glad that all the youths in the village be had been brought before the officer over that road. As the inquiry proceeded, she saw that Beaumont thought that it might be a fitting opportunity for him to change his hiding place of his money. He went quietly away to his own house, and taking his spade sought the tree where he had hidden his money. He began to dig, and presently he turned up a large quantity and his heart sank within him, for he was empty. The old man was almost stricken at his loss. Frantically he dug and dug, as if the earth could give him back the treasure which had been taken from him. Then when he realized that the wrings of his lifetime had gone he was as white as if he dared.

He would again see a sense of purpose in the things he began to do; he would lose the regret he began to have in doing an extravagant fashion. He would no longer weep and invoked vengeance upon those who were his enemies.

These things are misers. The fruits of their work and their lives increase this, for thrift carried to the extreme verge of parsimony is the backbone of their success. Certainly they cannot in the hour of his loss was an example of the class. No one in all his life had ever seen him in such a state of mind.

CHAPTER V.
THE ADVENTURE.

By this time the gendarmes had gone into investigation as far as the information allowed them and were pretty well at fault regarding any proof of the death being the result of a murder. Police, however, all the world over never confess that they are wrong, and the very fact that they are unable to make headway in an investigation is to them an additional reason for the continuance of their suspicion.

Being now quite at fault and almost anxious for an excuse for leaving the matter for the present without having to acknowledge the ignominy of defeat, they settled with alacrity the diversionary movement created by the charge of Beaumont.

The sergeant pulled himself together, got fresh paper and ink, and after snubbing his subordinates severely had Beaumont placed before him and began the investigation.

"Your name?"

"Charles Beaumont."

"Occupation?"

"Farmer."

"Age?"

"Thirty-two years on the 27th of last March."

"Married or single?"

"Married."

"Name of wife?"

"Marie."

"Her age?"

"Here the farmer began to feel that an investigation was by no means a pleasant proceeding, for he found the eye of the wife fixed on him with a glance that was half anxious and half threatening."

"Good Monsieur Beaumont had—like the rest of his sex—a rooted objection to tell her age. The farmer hesitated a little and stammered in nervousness, not at all in his difficulty by hearing his wife say in an audible voice:

"The brave officer, who is a gentleman, will not, I am sure, affront a woman. Tell him the truth, Charles."

"I have great pleasure in recommending to the general public in Belleville, P. & P. Co., a cure for the last three years with leading physicians and have taken many of them."

"I had a severe cold, but after taking eight of Belleville's Pills I was quite cured, and now I feel as free from the disease as before I was troubled."

THE LIVES LETTERS EXPOSURE.

The letters published a few days ago in the Toronto papers by Mr. John L. L. a former minority representative of the city of Toronto in the Local House, contain the Christian politician's first political exposure. The reader will remember, when Sir Oliver Appleton's son to the advantage of the city of Toronto, it was heralded forth to the world that the exposure was forced upon him by his friends and supporters in Toronto and in the Local Legislature; and if we are not much mistaken he, Sir Oliver, in assuming the position of the same reason for having made the exposure. We have no fault to find with him for giving the position to young Mowat, but readily admit his claim to the position. If for no other reason than the fact that he had made in the interests of his party, for no man of Sir Oliver's standing at the time who gave him the position, but make good his position, then the world gives credit for it. We do object, however, to the author of the "Exposure of Christianity" or even of a less pretentious man, playing the part of a Hoag in the exposure, by pretending that he was compelled by pressure to do that which he himself asked to have done.

Let us look at this nice little piece of abominable chicanery and see what it is. Sheriff Jarvis, of Toronto, died, and thereby vacated one of the best and most lucrative offices in the gift of the Ontario Government. Sir Oliver wanted it for his son, but for political reasons he could not get it. He was, however, a man of the highest integrity, and without an assumed pressure from his friends. He therefore sent for Mr. L. L., then the local member for the city, to reveal the scheming of the big life of Ontario Province's later address to Sir Oliver, at date 20th Dec. 1890, now for the first time published. In view of the pretensions of the professed Christian politician, it is highly interesting reading. Here is an extract from the letter.

You wrote me on the 17th of April, 1891, a few days after Sheriff Jarvis' death, stating that you had been asked to reveal the scheming of the big life of Ontario Province's later address to Sir Oliver, at date 20th Dec. 1890, now for the first time published. In view of the pretensions of the professed Christian politician, it is highly interesting reading. Here is an extract from the letter.

"What my friend has said as to my protective character, I do not deny. I have been a protectionist, which I am still. It is asserted by others, and assumed by me, that I am a Liberal principle, and protection a Conservative principle. I beg to dissent from this doctrine.

"If I were in Great Britain I would grow free trade. But I am a Canadian, and have no right to grow free trade. I require protection. I consider, however, that the present tariff affords sufficient protection.

"It may be said that this was not the real object in view; but I care little for the motive—I only regard the result. We have at the present time a 17% per cent tariff, which is protection for Ontario manufacturers against the rest of the world. But that is not all. Against the English competitor he has the difference of freight in his favor, and against the American competitor he has the difference in labor.

"We have within ourselves the ability to create an industry. If it be shown that we cannot maintain it, we should be legislated, either by the power of protection or by a tariff, that I should be ready to take that into consideration.

"This is a pretty strong attitude; Mr. L. L. even states that he would go so far as to prohibit the export of goods to keep our industries. Our readers will quite understand that Mr. L. L. would still be a protectionist, and that he has to have a party cry to get to get into power. Those indeed who know the Liberal leader intimately, say that at heart he is still a strong protectionist.

THE BANK STATEMENTS.

It is remarked by the Toronto World that the annual meetings of Canadian banks are always looked forward to with considerable interest. Our banking system has been highly commended, and many of the leading financial men of the United States think so highly of the system in regard to the fact that they have discussed it with a view to some of its principles in their own country.

The business situation is watched closely by our bankers, and no class of the community is in a better position to deal with the subject than they are. Consequently their views, as expressed at these annual gatherings, are read with interest.

Mr. B. R. Walker, the general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, gave a very full and comprehensive report on the trade situation. He dealt with the subject in a masterly way, taking up by one the leading industries of the country.

The net earnings of the Bank of Commerce for the year ended May 31st, were $260,000, as compared with $250,000 in the previous year, and $200,642 in 1891-92. Dividends of 7 per cent. were paid to stockholders, and the sum of $100,000 carried to next account, which fund now aggregates $1,200,000.

Notwithstanding the generally bad year in trade, the affairs of the Ontario Bank are in good shape. The retiring president reports an increase in the net profits of $45,000 over the previous year. The net profit of $45,000, as compared with $35,000 in the previous year, and $20,000 in 1891-92. After paying dividends of 8 per cent., $25,000 was carried to next account.

THE SUMMER GIRL.

Beautiful fashions of paste and enamel ornament many of the French dresses.

White trunks are extremely worn and white silk is introduced with guipure in many of the dresses. The man who has a white shirt with all sorts of juggling trinkets, such as miniature skulls, salt bottles, seals and pencils, are to be worn again.

Grasshopper asbes are made by a double band of ribbon passed around the waist and fastened at the back of the neck, with a row of small tassels reaching to the feet.

A new way of giving a dash of style to a plain coat or suit is to introduce a wide "white dot" or "black dot" pattern, which are made to button on and take off at will.

There is a new cream caprice, that is smarter than the more softly falling kind. The caprice with raised silk piping, which look like lace, are also very pretty and effective.

Fancy little combs of tortois shell or gold, with wild diamonds, are worn deep the hair in place. A pretty fancy for grey hair is a small comb of tortois shell, which is inserted at the side of the head, grading into the hair.

Boys' costume description are an indispensable article of summer attire, and they are by ribbon, velvet or leather. A new fancy ressembling cloth, armor in imitation of scales and bands and pallidus over the shoulders and arms, and a small hat, fancy buckles and clasp fasten the belt in front.

For a revival of old time fancies extends to names as well as things, and the present list in the "Maid of Orleans" are in fact, are found in the olden days, and are found in the olden days, and are found in the olden days.

Boycotting at Atlantic.

New York, June 23.—A Panama cable to the Herald says it is proposed in that country to close the Panama Canal to the British flag, to prohibit imports of British goods directly or indirectly, to cross giving concessions to England, to stop payment of interest on the British debt, to lay large stores of food and clothing in the United States, and to buy food and clothing to evacuate the lands at the mouth of the Orinoco river, to submit the territorial dispute to arbitration.

The Kaiser's Implyment.

Berlin, June 23.—The Emperor has just signed a decree authorizing a British diplomatic mission in the settlement of the dispute in the Anglo-Belgian agreement. He instructed Belgium and England, and to send a letter with France and thus prepare the way for the settlement of the whole question. It is now known that the Kaiser has authorized the mission.

signed in London shortly by the four persons concerned.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 25.—Elywell H. Sealey Jr., an author 36 years old, killed himself by cutting his throat with a razor. It is supposed he was insane. Mr. Sealey was graduate of Yale University, and the author of several text stories which were printed by the Harpers.

Glafston invited to the U. S. & WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—A letter of invitation to Hon. W. E. Glafston to visit the United States was circulated in the Senate and signed by almost all the Senators to whom it was presented.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

TORONTO, Jan. 25, 1894.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—There was no grain on the market and prices are nominal. Wheat and corn is quoted at 50c, red clover at 40c and oats at 58c. Oats sold at 39c to 40c for 600 bushels and 40c for 100 bushels. For our lead. Butter 30c to 41c.

Buffalo.—Cattle.—Only three or three and a half head of cattle on sale; butchers' steers and lambs—only three on sale; but there was made a market. Hogs—Ten cars; all well and no light supply; Steers—few and higher; but Yorkers sold up to $3.40; medium and small Yorkers $3.20 to $3.30; fat, good, $3.50 to $5.35.

The Chicago wheat market recovered on the announcement that the United States government to secure sufficient storage room for the wheat crop, had ordered the construction of the dry dock. Corn closed a shade under at the outside figure. Oats were lifeless.

A FRIEND

Speaks through the Mouthpiece (Mr. Rogers) of the benevolent friends who have received from the use of Ayer's Pills. He says: "I was feeling sick and my stomach was not all right. I tried a number of remedies, but none did me any good. I was relieved only when I used Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so gently purgative that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are in need of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills. They will do good."

Impure blood is the cause of innumerable diseases. Hence, one of the greatest necessities to humanity was the discovery of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which, more than any other medicine, has saved America from becoming a nation of invalids.

Fall, languidness, and the appearance of ill-health, being no longer fashionable among ladies, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is largely resorted to by a tonic alternative, restorative, stimulant, and builder up of the system generally. This is as it should be, Ayer is the best.

At a meeting of the Bay Quinte Conference special committees at Niagara on Monday some changes were made in the sessions of ministers. Rev. Jas. Anderson, who was placed at Norwood, being changed to Main street, Pleion, and Rev. R. M. Pope, of Union place, is stationed at Norwood.

Don't forget the date—Thursday, July 8, 9, 10, p.m. at "Rita Ross" at 3 p.m., Pleion and return $25. 49193.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the most desperate cases of consumption. Miller's Examination is "the blood that cures" of all diseases, and all diseases generally. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c, and $1, at druggists.

The Wheelmen's Tour.

It will be very becoming if all citizens, who possibly can, will, on Saturday next, bring their families and in this way welcome the three-headed wheelmen of the Dr. Doolittle party on their country tour.

With wheelmen Belleville has an enviable reputation; may that reputation be maintained by the people of this city.

The Dr. Doolittle party, which is expected to arrive in Belleville on Saturday next, will be met by the people of this city.

The Belleville wheelmen have engaged "The Belleville" for a road race from Belleville to Toronto.

The wheelmen remain here about two hours.

Police Court.

Everything was very quiet in the city yesterday for a crime day and only three cases were made by the police.

Albert Smith and his brother-in-law, John Hutchinson, got into a fight and Smith was bitten in a couple of places and the police gathered him in. They were fined $10 at the police court this morning. In default two months in goal.

The police arrested Wm. Mack, an old cripple, last night about 11 o'clock, for making disturbances in the street. He was allowed to go with a warning.

Nothing stronger.

Intelligent people, who realize the importance of the blood in the body, are now using the best blood purifier in the market.

SPOTS AND BLEMISHES, CAUSED BY BAD BLOOD, CURED BY B.B.B.

DEAR SIR:—I am thankful to B.B.B. because I am to-day free from the spots and blemishes which have been on my face for many years. I was troubled with scrofulous spots and blemishes all over my face, and was advised to try Burdock Bitters. I took one bottle, with great benefit, and can positively say that B.B.B. has taken half of the second bottle.

PERFECTLY CURED.

I am so pleased to be strong and healthy again by the use of B.B.B., and I can strongly recommend it to every body.
